SOVIETS TEAR
109-MILE GAP
IN NAZI LINESENEMY RETREATING
ON THREE FRONTS,
20,000 KILLED

BY TOM YARBROUGH

London, Saturday, March 11 (P)—Moscow announced yesterday that the Red army had opened a third great offensive in the Ukraine and sent 14 Nazi divisions into such headlong retreat that they abandoned all their equipment—including 1,100 mist tanks and big guns—and lost 20,000 men killed.

The new offensive, heading south in the middle of the southern front, broke through on a 109-mile line, overran 200 populated places, including the pivotal stronghold of Uman and resulted in the capture of 2,500 German, the Russians said.

The announcement was first made by Premier Marshal Joseph Stalin in an order of the day and later information was given in the Moscow communique and its midnight supplement—all recorded by the Soviet monitor from broadcasts.

March 10 (P)—The latest Soviet report, which revised the number of German divisions routed upward from ten to 14, said the German units in flight included one artillery, six tank and seven infantry divisions.

"The true scale of the German defeat can be judged from the huge quantity of trophies captured by our troops," the late bulletin said. "Weapons, equipment and military supplies were strewn on the whole course of the road from the Oril Tikh river to the town of Uman. All the roads were packed with enemy tanks, self-propelled guns, armored troop carriers and trucks."

Five German "Adolf Hitler tank divisions" which were intended to stop our offensive were "compelled to abandon all their military and technical equipment and flee," said the Soviet daily communique, recorded by the Soviet monitor.

This third offensive already has rolled from 25 to 44 miles in five days, Stalin announced in an order of the day, thus setting ablaze the entire Russian southern front along a curving battle-line more than 500 miles long. It joined offensives already under way to the east above Nikolayev and Kherson and to the west in the region of Transilvania.

The Germans were retreating on each of the three big fronts as the Red army mounted a supreme effort to throw them back into Rumania and Poland or cut them to pieces if they should elect to make a stand in the Ukraine.

The latest push directed by newly-promoted Marshal Ivan S. Konev, commander of the second Ukrainian front, was pushing south toward Bessarabia from the top of the German salient into the Dnieper bend.

Victory Salute Repeated
On his right were the first Ukrainian front forces under Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov moving into southern Poland and Rumania and on his left were the third Ukrainian front troops of Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky.

Stalin's announcement, ordering a victory salute of 20 salutes from 224 guns, came only a few hours after the Germans broad-

Humorist Irvin S. Cobb
Dies In New York City

New York, March 10. (P)—Irvin S. Cobb, one of America's best-known humorists, has voiced his last quip, written his last story.

The 67-year-old Paducah, Ky., author, actor and after-dinner speaker, died today at the Hotel Sheraton. He had been ill for three months.

In a coma during his last 24 hours, he was unable to keep a vow made last December to Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press, that he would "keep friendly newspapers fully advised" when he got ready to depart.

His letter to Cooper, prompted by news stories of his illness at that time, added that Cobb was the only person on record who did not, in similar circumstances, say that "the reports of my death have been greatly exaggerated."

In another letter, left in the office of the Paducah Sun-Democrat with instructions that it be opened after his death, Cobb asked that his body be cremated and the ashes used to fertilize a tree to be planted in Paducah, where he began his newspaper career.

The letter said he wanted no mourning, no flowers and no funeral in the traditional form.

A friend of the family said here that the body would be cremated Monday and the ashes taken to Paducah.

Mrs. Cobb and a nurse were with him when he died. He is survived also by a daughter, Mrs. Elisabeth Cobb Rogers of New York.

Cobb's career took him from Kentucky to the staffs of the New York Sun and the New York World, after which he wrote for the Saturday Evening Post as a foreign correspondent during World War I.

Later he wrote for Hearst publications, including Cosmopolitan magazine. His most famous fiction character was "Judge Priest."

SENATORS WILL RETURN MONDAYKelly's Appointment Of
Health Commissioner
Up For Approval

Lansing, March 10 (P)—Enough senators will return Monday for final adjournment of the special legislative session to act on Governor Kelly's appointment of a new health commissioner. It was announced today by Senator George P. McCallum, Ann Arbor Republican and president pro tempore of the chamber.

Asserting there would be a quorum present when the senate convenes, McCallum called for a final decision on the governor's nomination of Dr. William DeKleine, former medical director of the American Red Cross, to the commissionership. The senate failed to act before it adjourned February 18.

"If we don't want to confirm him," McCallum said, "let's do it in open session, and if we do confirm him, we'll do that in open session. It was a mistake to do what we did before—just leave it dangling in mid-air."

Only a handful of house members are expected to be present for the sine die adjournment, since no business will be before that house.

Citizenship Taken
From German-Born
Group At Detroit

Detroit, March 10 (P)—Federal Judge Edward J. Molnet today revoked the citizenship of six German-born men charged by the government with having held mental reservations when they swore allegiance to the United States.

The six, who face possible internment after hearings by the enemy alien board, are Fritz Streuter, who is now serving a penitentiary term on conviction of advising German-born Americans to dodge the draft, and Herman Guenther, John H. B. Schreiber, Fritz Ebert, August Baeker and Paul Gies.

Louis M. Hopping, assistant U. S. district attorney, said the six were members of the German-American Bund and other alien organizations.

Hopping said a seventh original defendant, Jakob Josef Karr, had relinquished his citizenship voluntarily.

DEPUTIES TAKE CAKE

San Diego, Calif., March 10 (P)—Don D. Donahue and William Krenning received a big, three-layer cake for helping two women who came to their office.

"You have been so nice to my sister and me we decided we would bake you a cake," a note explained.

Donahue and Krenning are income tax deputies.

POLITICS OPEN

Members Of Armed
U. S. Forces

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER

Washington, March 10 (P)—President Roosevelt today approved a joint army-navy policy agreement which would permit General Douglas MacArthur, Lieut. Commander Harold E. Stassen or other members of the armed forces to become candidates for elective office, but would bar them from campaigning.

A regular army or navy man, such as MacArthur, could become a candidate, however, only if a nomination "is tendered without direct or indirect activity or solicitation on his part," while a member of the reserve on active duty, such as Stassen, could announce as a candidate without waiting on a nomination.

The new regulations, clarifying previous ones and bringing those of the army and navy into line for the first time, require release from active duty for any military man elected to public office.

They were made public at a news conference with the president's comment that they were not new and were not directed at any one in particular.

Ohioan Convicted
Of Killing Three
Relatives On Farm

Washington Court House, O., March 10. (P)—A jury tonight convicted 60-year-old James W. Collett of murdering three relatives and committed death in the electric chair as punishment.

The verdict, returned by nine men and three women after two hours and 45 minutes' deliberation, found that the Clinton county hog breeder shot to death his brother-in-law, Elmer McCoy, 59; Mrs. McCoy, 64, and his daughter, Mildred, 22, a school teacher, on Thanksgiving Eve.

The prosecution, demanding the death penalty, contended in the death penalty trial that Collett shot the family so that he could inherit their prosperous farm estate, valued at $55,000. The state introduced a statement which quoted Collett as confessing he killed McCoy.

The defense insisted that the confession was obtained under duress and that Collett was not near the McCoy farm the night the three were slain.

Fourth Victim Dies
In Army Shooting
At Riverside, Calif.

Riverside, Calif., March 10 (P)—Capt. Aubrey Serling, shot allegedly by a fellow officer Sunday night, died tonight in the camp hospital. His wife, who flew here from their Preston, Minn. home, was at his side.

Serling was the fourth victim of a service pistol which a cornerer's jury said was held by Second Lt. Beaufort G. Swancott.

The latter was reported recovering from gun wounds inflicted by evil policemen and army officials said he would face a court martial when he is able to be brought into camp. Also dead were Dorothy Douglas and Lourdine Livermore, each 19, and Police-Man Arthur Simpson.

Three other victims of the shooting were reported recovering.

MARINES TAKE

SPREADING OUT
IN ISLANDS

BY LEONARD MILLMAN

Associated Press War Editor
American marines captured Talasea and its nearby airfield within three days after they landed on the jungle covered shores of the New Britain peninsula on New Britain's north coast, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today (Saturday).

Simultaneously he reported further advances by United States soldiers on the two other Bismarck Sea battlefronts—on Los Negros Island in the Admiralty group and on the northeast coast of New Guinea between Sidor and the Japanese base of Madang.

Lone Flier In Support
Marines landed Monday on Williams peninsula, supported only by a solitary flier plane towing out hand grenades. By Wednesday they took the Talasea emergency airstrip, less than 170 miles from Rabaul, and pressed on the next day to occupy the village.

On Los Negros Island dismounted Texas cavalrymen advanced another three and a half miles against big, well-trained Japanese marines, many of whom killed themselves rather than accept defeat.

Navy Catalina bombers, making a foray up the northeast New Guinea coast 250 miles west of their customary hunting ground, forced one ship aground and made the crew desert another near the excellent harbor of Hollandia.

Central Pacific air forces encountered dwindling anti-aircraft fire Wednesday as they renewed their frequent raids on the eastern Caroline Islands and continued daily attacks on four Japanese-held atolls in the eastern Marshall Islands. Airdromes and docks were hit at Ponape, ground installations at Kusaie, and gun

HERBERT WINDS

Down Pay For 3 Months
As Governor's Aide

Lansing, March 10. (P)—Still refusing to accept pay for three months work as Governor Kelly's aide, J. Joseph Herbert, of Manistique, a recent of the University of Michigan, says he is going home next week.

Herbert has acted as legal adviser to the governor during the absence of Thomas A. Kenney, who has been ill and is expected to return to his desk Monday.

Herbert came to the capital in December to help Kelly draft his legislative program and remained to direct much of the legislative program.

Discarding suggestions he might be a candidate for attorney general, Herbert said he did not want the position and would not accept it if the nomination were offered him.

The defense insisted that the confession was obtained under duress and that Collett was not near the McCoy farm the night the three were slain.

Rome Rail Yards Hit
Again By U. S. Bombers

Allied Headquarters, Naples, March 10 (P)—Fighter escorted American medium bombers attacked railroad yards in Rome again today and heavy damage was reported.

(The Nazi-controlled Rome radio said "a large number of houses were hit and it is feared casualties are high." The broadcast made the claim, unsupported in Allied announcements, that two of the raiders crashed in flames near the outskirts of the city. The Swiss radio, meanwhile, quoted the German commander of Rome as saying that Rome was considered an open city and had no anti-aircraft guns.)

The Tiburtina yards in Rome's eastern suburbs were hit by Ma-rauders escorted by American-piloted Spitfires and rolling stock and warehouses were declared blasted.

Thunderbolt-escorted Mitchells struck the Littorio yards on the northern limits of the city. The Littorio yards were bombed last Tuesday.

Reads Get Allied Ships Instead
Of 3-Way Italian Fleet Split

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Washington, March 10. — American and British warships will be turned over to the Russian navy in satisfaction of Soviet wartime claims on the Italian fleet, informed reports said today and were apparently borne out by statements from President Roosevelt.

At the chief executive's press-radio conference, the gist of these reports—as related in an Associated Press dispatch—was read by a reporter who asked for comment.

Mr. Roosevelt replied that it was a matter of military strategy which ships were going where and perhaps he had better not say.

Along the same line, however, he told the newsmen emphatically that there was no conflict whatsoever between what he has said and what Prime Minister Churchill has said about the Italian fleet.

It would have been apparent all along that there was no controversy, he asserted, if some reports of what he said a week ago

IMPORTS SLICED
ON CANE LIQUORSources Of Gin, Rum
And Cordials Diverted
To War Needs

Washington, March 10 (P)—The government today put a severe kink in the last unhampered source of drinking liquor—the pipeline from the cane countries to the south.

A new curb on imports of rum, gin, cordials and whiskies distilled from cane is expected to slash imports from Cuba, for instance, by more than 50 per cent. In evident fear of resumption of rum-running in the Caribbean, the War Production Board said the Coast Guard had been notified in advance, to be prepared to help with enforcement.

VPB gave out no figures on the actual curtailment to be effective by its order, which controls imports from Mexico, Cuba and other countries and limits both the production and imports of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and other United States territories and possessions.

It was explained that the action is designed to encourage Latin American countries to devote their molasses to production of industrial alcohol needed in the war rather than to beverages.

Einstein Requires
Aid On Income Tax

Princeton, N. J., March 10. (P)—Prof. Albert Einstein, world famous mathematician and wizard of the fourth dimension, said tonight that he, like millions of ordinary Americans who are mulling through complex income tax forms, had to call in a tax expert to help him prepare for the March 15 deadline.

Asked what his reaction was to the maze of income tax questions, Prof. Einstein, whose theory of relativity is supposedly understood by only seven persons in the world, replied: "This is a question too difficult for a mathematician. It should be asked of a philosopher."

Simplified Income
Tax Bill Is Pushed

Washington, March 10 (P)—Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the senate finance committee predicted tonight that an income tax simplification bill eliminating the fling of returns on incomes up to $5,000 will be passed and sent to the president within 60 days.

"This will affect some 30,000,000 taxpayers," he told a press conference.

He and Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the house ways and means committee declared in a joint statement that every effort would be made to limit the new legislation to simplification of the individual income tax law—a theme which Treasury Secretary Morgenthau likewise stressed at a press conference a short time earlier.

"Were those key words 'or equivalent'?" a reporter asked.

They were, Mr. Roosevelt agreed.

The president first disclosed last Friday that Moscow had made a claim on the Italian navy since Marshal Badoglio's surrender was to Britain, the United States and Russia. He said it had been half-decided to transfer to the Red navy about one third of the Italian fleet or the equivalent.

NIGHT BOMBERS
OVER NAZILANDSwedish Travelers Say
Berlin Is Smoking
Mass Of Ruins

BY GLADWIN HILL

London, March 10. (P)—The Paris radio clicked off the air tonight, indicating that R.A.F. night bombers which last night blasted a Nazi airplane factory near Marseille, might have returned to deliver another blow at the German-dominated continent.

An air raid alarm sounded in Berlin today for several hours but no bombs were dropped, a Stockholm dispatch said. The alert presumably was caused by reconnaissance planes as American Flying Fortresses and Liberators took a day off after setting an endurance mark for large-scale heavy bombing by hitting the German capital four days out of six.

Travelers arriving in Malmoe, Sweden, from Germany said fires were still seen burning in Berlin today.

The heavy British Lancaster bombers winged through a bright "bomber's moon" last night to hit Marganne in the wake of the American daylight pounding of Berlin. It was the RAF's third straight night heavy bomber operation without the loss of a plane.

The German-controlled Scandinavian telegraph bureau quoted both German and Swedish air passengers as saying that American bombers attacked Berlin from all directions on Wednesday. The noise of the engines could be heard in deep air raid shelters, they said, adding that the sky was "crowded with bombers."

Presidency Changes
Hands In Argentina
As Ramirez Resigns

Buenos Aires, March 10 (P)—Gen. Edelmir J. Farrell, who had served for two weeks as acting president of Argentina, assumed the office of president today upon the resignation of Gen. Pedro Pablo Ramirez.

Col. Gregorio Tauer, executive secretary of the presidency, announced the action which made Farrell the titular chief executive. This latest change in Argentina's kaleidoscopic political picture came after Ramirez—whose administration previously had broken relations with the axis—delegated his executive powers to Farrell two weeks ago on the ground that he was fatigued by the tasks of office.

Neither the text of Ramirez' resignation nor of the manifesto which explained the change to the public has been disclosed.

IRISH REFUSE TO OUST JAPS
AND GERMANSINVASION OF EUROPE
ENDANGERED, SAYS
U. S. CHARGE

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, March 10. (P)—The United States publicly accused Ireland tonight of affording a base for axis spies endangering the approaching allied invasion of Europe, but the Irish government replied it was taking effective anti-espionage measures and refused an appeal to expel German and Japanese diplomats from the country.

The state department announced that the request for expulsion of the enemy officials, held to be leaders in the spy ring, was transmitted to Prime Minister De Valera at Dublin February 21. The department made public the text of a note setting forth the spy accusations.

Lives At Stake
Simultaneously the Irish legation here issued the text of De Valera's reply rejecting the request and stating that "should American lives be lost it will not be through any indifference or neglect of its duty on the part of this state."

De Valera also said he had received the assurance of the American government that it "does not contemplate" using military measures—presumably invasion of Ireland—because of rejection of the request that the Irish eject the enemy officials.

The American note, presented by Minister David Gray had reminded the prime minister of the vast military preparations now underway in Britain and Northern Ireland and declared it is "vital that information from which may be deduced their nature and direction should not reach the enemy."

"Not only the success of the operation but the lives of thousands of United States soldiers are at stake."

Parachutists Dropped
Specific evidence of enemy espionage operations within Ireland were given in the assertions that (1) The German legation in Dublin, at least until recently, had possessed a radio sending set and (2) German planes had dropped into Ireland two parachutists equipped with radio sending apparatus.

While acknowledging Ireland's good faith in their efforts to maintain strict neutrality, the United States said it actually is impossible to determine "with certainty" the extent of the enemy's Irish-based espionage against American shipping and air troops.

It then cited the fact that German and Japanese diplomatic and consular officers in Dublin still enjoy their customary immunity and declared "axis representatives in every country use these special privileges and immunities as a cloak for espionage activities against the United Nations."

Aircraft Engineer
Appointed To State
Aeronautics Board

Lansing, March 10. (P)—William B. Stout, of Detroit, internationally famous aircraft engineer, was appointed to the state aeronautics board today by Governor Kelly to replace the late William B. Mayo. His term will expire August 27, 1947.

Director of the Stout Research division of Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp., Stout built the famous tri-motor plane for the Ford Motor Co., which is considered the parent of most long-range transports and bombers in this country. He also has designed advanced railroad cars, automobiles and light planes.

Kelly said Stout's appointment would be presented to the senate Monday for confirmation when that chamber resumes for sine die adjournment of the special legislative session.

Trunk Line Highway
System Faces Huge
Rebuilding Program

Washington, March 10. (P)—Approximately 90 per cent of Michigan's 9,400-mile trunk line highway system must be rebuilt as soon as possible, Charles M. Ziegler, state highway commissioner, told the house and senate roads committees today.

Ziegler spoke in behalf of a federal post-war road construction bill which would provide $1,000,000,000 a year for three years to be divided among the states on a 75-25 matching basis.

As the result of inability to keep up with steadily collapsing roads, Ziegler said, Michigan will have a huge backlog of building when the war ends, in addition to new roads to meet conditions of growth.

He said Michigan contractors have sufficient equipment to carry on a $75,000,000 a year building program if money is available.

DEALINGS BRISK FOR STOCK LIST

BY BERNARD S. OHARA
New York, March 10 (AP)—Motors, a few rails and specialties, including liquors, enjoyed a revival of investment demand in today's stock market while many leaders were unable to participate to any notable extent.
Selective recoveries appeared at the start and final gains of fractions to a point were well distributed with scattered issues recording. Under jump, low-priced utilities turned over in blocks running to 15,000 shares without getting anywhere in particular. Activity was brisk at intervals and dealings exceeded the million share aggregate for the third time this week. Numerous new 1944 highs were in evidence.
The Associated Press 60-stock average was up 2 of a point at 52.4, a peak since last July 24. Of 588 stocks appearing, 471 were up and 217 down or unchanged. Transfers totaled 1,147,720 shares compared with 832,853 Thursday.
Prominent at last week's year-end longer were Chrysler, Studebaker, Willys-Overland, Kansas City Southern, American Locomotive, Baldwin Locomotive, Sunbeam Machine, Worthington Pump, Bostwick-McCormick, Schenley (up 3-4), Dillards Corp., National Distillers, Wilson & Co., Westinghouse, De Pont, U. S. Rubber and John-MacVicar.
Lovers included U. S. Steel, Consolidated Edison, North American, Sears Roebuck, Boeing, Kennecott and American Smelting.
Boardrooms studied the stock exchange compilation disclosing the short interest in February increased from 4,737,000 shares on January 23 to 985,617 shares. Principal expansion was shown for Atlantic Coast Line, Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Bethlehem, Chrysler, N. Y. Central, General Motors and Southern Pacific.

BONDS QUIET
New York, March 10 (AP)—In one of the quietest markets of the year, bonds continued to display an uneven appearance today. Closing prices of corporate issues showed an approximate balance of fractional gains and losses.
A few rails were in supply and dropped a fraction or more. New York City 4 1/2% bonds, 1940-41, were at 100 1/2. Moderately lower were St. Paul "E" 4 1/2% of '39, Cleveland Union Terminal 4 1/2% of '39, and Hudson & Manhattan M-K-T adjustment 5%.
Those on the improved side included obligations of Atlantic Coast Line and Baltimore & Ohio, Columbia Gas & Electric, Erie, Great Northern of '73 and Illinois Central of '25.
Small changes in the foreign list brought only minor changes in the more actively traded issues. U. S. governments were steady.
Transactions totaled $2,241,500, face value, compared with $8,742,200 the previous session.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, March 10 (AP)—A complete absence of offerings of grain in the cash market, coupled with a sustained and unsatisfied demand, provided the background today for an advance in future prices. Oats and barley were particularly strong, the May oats contract reaching a new record high and selling within 1-5 cent of its ceiling.
There were no wheat, corn, oats, rye or barley sold in the open cash market. The few arrivals were applied to previous contracts. Bookings of corn on a "to-arrive" basis from the country were only 50,000 bushels, well below the amount which could be used. Corn bookings for the week thus far total 502,000 bushels.
After reaching 31 1/4 cents a bushel, May oats closed at 31 1/4. Oats in only range from 15 to 15 1/2 cents. Barley was up 1 1/4 to 1 1/2, May $1.24 1/4; rye was up 1/4 to 1 1/2, May $1.24 1/4 to $1.24 3/4, and wheat gained 1/4 to 3/8, May $1.71 1/4.

IRISH REFUSE TO OUST JAPS AND GERMANS

plete break in relations between Ireland and the axis.
De Valera replied to this that forcing removal of diplomatic officials "is universally recognized as the first step toward war" and he added that the Irish government "could not entertain the American proposal without a complete betrayal of their democratic trust. . . Irish neutrality represents the united will of the people and the parliament."
On the charge that the German minister had a radio transmitter, De Valera said he had been "debarred from using it" for a long time and that for "some months" it had been in the custody of the Irish government.
"As regards the two parachutists dropped in Ireland last December," the Irish reply said, "they were apprehended within a few hours."
The American note caused extreme tension in Ireland for several days after its delivery and the Irish army was ordered to stand by for action along the Ulster border in the period of Feb. 25 to Feb. 28.
The Irish apparently were apprehensive lest a rejection of the note should result in an Anglo-American military move against Ireland.

Lansing, March 10 (AP)—The state capital building commission today decided to recommend purchase of a four-block square immediately behind the capital building as the site for a new $8,000,000 state office building.
The final decision to purchase the land must be made by the state administrative board. The building commission rejected an alternative site behind the present office building.
Auditor General Vernon J. Brown, commission chairman, said the group agreed to employ an architect to assist the members decide on amount and type of floor space needed to suit the functions of the agencies to be using the building. Forty-six Japanese planes were destroyed in allied raids on three airfields in central Burma.
In northern Burma American infantrymen began advancing south from Walawbum, extending the route of the Ledo road American engineers are constructing to China while other units of their force joined Chinese in mopping up remnants of 2,000 trapped Japanese to the north.
This drive, under command of Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, is moving with a speed out of all proportion to the three other Burmese fronts to the south. Stilwell is anxious to push through the road and relieve aerial transports which are flying around the clock from India to China, averaging three crossings of the Himalays daily.

OPA Will Conduct U. P. Price Survey Beginning Monday

Lawrence L. Farrell, district director of the Office of Price Administration has announced that beginning Monday, March 13th, all war price and rationing boards in the upper peninsula of Michigan will conduct an official price survey of every food store to determine how well we are doing in observing retail price control. About 150 people, acting as spare-time volunteers, are going to visit food stores in Upper Michigan.
"Maintaining price control and observing ceiling prices on food are very important if we are going to prevent disastrous inflation," Farrell said. "One of the ways to do it is to get solidly behind these ceiling prices and see that everybody sticks to them. Price controls on all food were put into operation so that the wife and child of a soldier could get along a little better on a monthly allotment of $50.00. So that families whose salaries have not been raised or people living on pensions or annuities could find things in the store that weren't priced way beyond all reason. Everyone knows that these war-time measures are absolutely vital if we are going to protect ourselves and insure an ordinary stable community to which our fighting men can return. They are calling on us to do that job and we don't want to fail them."

CHEMICAL ERA IS PREDICTED

Light Metals, Plastics And Alcohol Have Great Future
New York (AP)—Light metals, plastics and alcohol promise to become the three basic industries of the future.
Dr. William J. Hale, research consultant for the Dow Chemical company, predicts that each of these industries will supplant present established manufacturing procedures.
Speaking before the advertising club of New York, Dr. Hale said the automobile industry is presently "shaking off its steely armor" in favor of a combination of light metals and plastics. He added that advances of these materials "does not foretell the end of steel," but indicates only that it will be reserved for heavy construction and durability.
The new trend, Hale said, is towards a chemical age, and alcohol will play a big part. Ethyl alcohol which forms a basis for a wide range of important organic products may be expanded to a capacity of 20,000,000,000 gallons annually within 20 years.
In the same period he predicted aluminum production may reach 20,000,000,000 pounds a year and magnesium 4,000,000,000 pounds. Combined with plastics the light metals offer limitless pounds. In construction in airplanes, automobiles, trucks and railroads.

Hale said that within the next two decades he expects the three industries to have a combined production in excess of $12,000,000,000 annually.

Corn is not mentioned in the Bible, nor did the ancient Greeks have a word for it.

Wainwright Forced To Yield Troops Outside His Jurisdiction

The first eye-witness account of General Jonathan M. Wainwright's capitulation is given in the current issue of Collier's Weekly by Royal Arch Gunnison who tells how initial efforts to surrender weary, sick and hungry forces were rejected by the Japanese because the U. S. commander wouldn't surrender all American troops in the Philippines, including those outside his command.

The insistence of Lieutenant General M. Homma that General Wainwright exceed his authority and also surrender troops under General Sharp on Mindanao Island delayed the cease firing on the whole brave Americans fought and died—by about a day according to Gunnison, a repatriated American newsman. Gunnison first was interned near Manila but later transferred to Shanghai where he obtained the story of General Wainwright's surrender from Karamuro Uno, a Japanese war correspondent who was present at the historic Wainwright-Homma meeting.

Japs In Limousines
After General Wainwright, thin and drawn and his uniform worn and wrinkled, had waited with several officers and a staff sergeant holding a large white flag for about a half hour General Homma and his staff arrived in army limousines at a small frame shack on Bataan, writes Gunnison who adds:

"General Homma spoke first—through an interpreter—although his English is letter-perfect.

"I suppose you are tired, General?" he asked.

"General Homma," he said. "I have come to surrender my men and myself."

As he sat down and motioned to General Wainwright and his staff to be seated, General Homma declared:

"In the name of his Imperial Japanese Majesty, I accept the surrender of all the United States forces in the Philippine Islands."

Puzzled, General Wainwright hesitated a moment, according to Gunnison, and then protested:

"I can surrender only the forces on Corregidor and Fort Drum."

Not waiting for the interpreter to begin repeating, Homma flared back:

"You are in command of all the forces in the Philippines. This has been true since MacArthur left. I will accept the surrender of all American forces—or you can go back to Corregidor and expect the full force of our attack to continue."

Arising and with a parting order to General Wainwright that "when you see fit to surrender, you may surrender to the commanding officer now on Corregidor. He will bring you to me in Manila," General Homma departed, says Gunnison adding:

Wainwright Was Worried
"General Wainwright and his staff were obviously worried. In a few minutes the American Army colonel came over to where a Japanese lieutenant, a colonel, and Uno were talking.

Urge Veterans To Record Discharge At Clerk's Office

War veterans returning to Delta county are being urged by Gerald Cleary, home service office of the American Legion, and vice chairman of the Veterans' Reemployment committee, to record their discharge papers at the office of County Clerk Theodore Ohlen at the court house.

There is no charge for the recording service, and the veteran thereafter is assured that, whether he loses his discharge or it is destroyed, he can always obtain a legal copy.

The importance of the record is that veterans must have their discharge papers to make application for compensation or other service-connected claims. The record at the clerk's office is an assurance that no matter what happens to the original, a copy may always be obtained.

County Clerk Ohlen yesterday said that 114 army and navy discharge papers have been recorded.

LAKE VESSELS TO START SOON

Committee Will Request
Deferments From Draft Boards

Cleveland, Ohio.—With Great Lakes' vessels scheduled to get steam up next week, swift action was taken here today to meet the critical manpower situation that threatens to block movement of a record tonnage of essential war materials across the lakes this season.

The Lake Vessel Committee, representing 33 shipping companies, was authorized to begin immediately the submission to local draft boards of requests for deferment of skilled seamen, without whom the 367 vessels of the member companies cannot operate.

The program to seek deferment of these seamen was endorsed in Washington Monday by the Office of Defense Transportation, the War Production Board and the War Food Administration.

At today's meeting in Cleveland, a sub-committee on manpower was organized, members of which will begin immediately to contact Selective Service directors in each of the Great Lake's states, acquainting them with recruitment and manning problems of the carriers.

Named to this committee from Cleveland were A. B. Kern, marine superintendent of the Hanna Company, as chairman; W. C. Garbutt, personnel manager of the Pittsburgh Steamship Company; L. C. Matia, secretary, Wilson Transit company and John Guthrie, personnel department, Pickands Mather & Company, appointed from the Huron Transportation Company of Detroit was that concern's assistant manager H. R. Schermer.

Executive members of the Lake Vessel Committee will meet here tomorrow to appoint an assistant director to head its manpower office and assist the committee's director Karl H. Suder.

Not Authorized — The Union Cab company, which operated in Escanaba for less than a day, was not authorized by the local War Price and Rationing Board to obtain gasoline for operation of its cabs, a representative of the board said yesterday. The Office of Defense Transportation alone has authority to permit gasoline for such use, and the local War Price and Rationing Board does not have such authority.

Forum Has Possibilities

NEARLY a hundred men and women attended the first session of the Citizens Forum at the Escanaba city hall Thursday evening to hear four well-qualified speakers discuss various phases of the postwar problems that face this community.

The discussions covered the problems involved in bringing in new industries, vocational training of workers for these industries, rehabilitation of returning war veterans, and labor's role in the postwar era. Much criticism about community matters was nailed down in the round table discussions, out of which most certainly came a better understanding of what is going on.

There will be, of course, a certain number of gossipers, who will continue to spread misinformation and will refrain from going to the forum where their statements can be analyzed and refuted. Nevertheless, the forum offers possibilities of combatting many of the insinuations and rumors, regardless of their hidden sources.

The forum provides an excellent opportunity for bringing community issues out into the open for free discussion. After all, if any project or idea cannot stand this test it is either faulty or not worthwhile.

Draft Hits Lakes

FACED with the task of hanging up new traffic records this season, the 23 shipping companies, representing the bulk carrier fleet on the Great Lakes, have formed with ODT approval the Lake Vessels committee to solve its serious manpower problems.

The Great Lakes fleet requires 12,605 officers and crew men to man the 367 ships that will be in service during the 1944 season, which is expected to open before the end of this month. Many of these men are facing induction into the armed forces, and so the Lake Vessel committee is preparing to ask deferments for 3,200 of them.

The Great Lakes fleet has a heavy responsibility on its shoulders this season. It has been asked by the War Production Board and War Food Administration to move 50,000,000 tons of iron ore, 57,000,000 tons of coal, 18,000,000 tons of limestone and a large amount of grain. All these are materials highly essential to the successful prosecution of the war effort. They must be borne by boats, for the railroads and trucks already have as much wartime traffic as they can handle.

The operation of the Great Lakes fleet is as important as the movement of warships at sea. And the fleet needs the men to do it.

Postwar Education

ON the occasion of Colgate University's 125th anniversary, Dr. Everett Needham Case, its president, issued a report which roughly outlines the university's plans for the future. It might seem that such plans are of no immediate concern. After all, the world's biggest war is far from won, and our tremendous task of economic readjustment is still largely a matter of blueprints and conjecture.

But the country's colleges have their own "reconversion" problems, too. Few of them have escaped the disruptive influence of war. At Colgate a large percentage of the faculty was called into service or to more necessary jobs. The civilian student body was reduced by almost nine-tenths. New studies and new emphasis changed the curriculum to conform to the needs of sailors and Marines based there for flight and other training programs.

This disruption of normal academic life, however, did afford "an unparalleled opportunity for taking fresh stock of our educational ends and means," Dr. Case points out. And though the results of this stock-taking have not been formally reported, they will probably fulfill Dr. Case's prediction that "our aim must not be to diversify but to deepen and enrich our characteristic contribution."

The end of the war is bound to bring both a need and a market for technical training. Hundreds of thousands of young men and women will come out of the armed forces and war plants with new skills and a new interest in technical matters.

"The fact remains, however," says Dr. Case, "that the great problems of contemporary civilization are not technical, but human and social. We have been warned that unless we can keep pace socially, morally and esthetically, with the gigantic strides of science and technology, the balance of our civilization becomes highly precarious. If a world which has known the phenomenon of a Hitler and his cult cannot grasp the significance of that warning, we have little hope indeed of righting ourselves."

The world's problems are not going to bet settled by helicopters, television, electronically heated houses or plastics. They will be settled, whenever they are settled, by a better understanding of man as an individual and as a component of society, of his needs and rights and duties.

Who is to achieve this understanding? Not only the rulers of men, certainly, but as many of the John Does of the world as have the mental capacity to receive it. As long as there is need for such understanding, there will be a need for liberal arts colleges. They are needed to teach the world perspective and reason, to help the world pick itself up after such a conflict as this, and pursue with a little more wisdom the distant hope that every war will be the last one.

Doing Great Job

THE apprehension that gripped Americans when the Nazis launched their U-boat campaign against our shipping must now be felt by the Japanese as they observe the success now being achieved by our submarines in the Pacific.

We were eventually able to overcome the Nazi underwater warfare by the rapid production of escort ships, patrol planes and the use of other protective measures. This hope will be denied the Japanese, however, for their country does not have the industrial capacity to produce similar safeguards.

Our growing air and naval power in the Pacific already is cutting down Japan's shipping faster than her shipyards are able to replace it. Like the Nazis, the Japanese have switched from offensive to defensive warfare as they steadily retreat toward their homeland.

By this time, they must be concentrating on the production of fighter planes and other defensive weapons, preparing to make the Allies pay dearly when they attempt to storm their mainland fortress. We are making steady progress toward Tokyo, but the fighting will become harder the closer we get to it.

WHAT OF THE HARVEST? (Duluth Herald)

The state central committees of the Democratic and Farmer-Labor parties of Minnesota have made arrangements to merge, according to the news that comes from Minneapolis, and spokesmen of the two parties reported that the meetings were "surprisingly" harmonious. That's something. Some details are still to be arranged, but it appears that the merger will go through, so far as the tops of the parties are concerned, anyway.

But what of the rank and file? Can the state central committees deliver? It is an easy matter for the top committees to come to an understanding, especially under circumstances such as exist. Prolonged absence from the political feed trough, or danger of losing what is in hand, promotes a desire to combine, agree, importune and work for at least a showing at election time.

Democrats in this state, for the most part, have the federal offices, and like them. Should a Republican be elected president next November, they would lose these soft jobs, and they don't like that prospect. Farmer-Labor members have been out of the running for several years, and are completely divorced from either state or national jobs. They would like to get some of them back. Both parties feel that the only way to accomplish anything in Minnesota is to merge interests and strength. But again, can they deliver enough strength to swing power?

The drift this year is all the other way. There is no state issue favorable to the Dem-FL party, so their only hope would be that the President is strong enough to pull them through. In national politics, their view cannot be too encouraging, for Minnesota is back in the GOP column and most likely will stay there. The FDR fever here has subsided, as it apparently is subsiding everywhere else.

However, nobody can criticize them for the merger. It's their only hope; slim, but, nevertheless, a hope.

HANDBOOK OF PRACTICAL ENGLISH

Q. In English class yesterday we came across a question that baffled even our teacher. Which verb should we use in "The United Nations (is-are) fighting?"

A. The general rule is that if a group is thought of as a unit, the verb should be singular, as: The United States is . . . If the individuals are thought of, the verb should be plural, as: The United States are Alabama, Arizona, etc.

In the case of the United Nations, the "group" idea is not predominate as it is in the case of the United States—indeed, the Nations are fighting tooth and toenail to maintain their individualities, albeit they have as their common purpose the defeat of Germany and Japan. The established usage is: The United Nations are . . .

Q. We cannot decide whether contents, headquarters, and whereabouts are to be construed as singular or plural. A ruling, please.

so summoned leaders of the Yugoslav cabinet from Cairo in a final effort to settle disputes between Tito and General Mikhallovitch. But there is another issue as urgent as these two which apparently is being neglected only because no great power is insisting on a showdown, as the Soviet government is doing in the Polish and Yugoslav cases.

That is the Italian question. In Italy, revolutionary anti-fascist and anti-German forces in the north, occupied by the Germans, and under the authority of the Mussolini government, have risen in rebellion. An estimated three to six million strikers are demanding renunciation of the draft for Fascist armies; cessation of the shipment of Italian technicians and workers to Germany, reduction of curfew hours; and immediate liberation and return of Italians deported to Poland. Before this column appears there may have been a showdown and bloody massacre by German military authorities.

In any case the revolt is in full swing, and is the first great rising against Nazis and Fascists anywhere in western Europe.

—WE IGNORE IT—

Our policy seems to be to ignore it. But bear in mind that for years the British and American propaganda has been urging this revolt, and not only against the Fascist government but once even against Badoglio—in August, when we wanted pressure on him to give in. Now it occurs.

At the same time we continue to support, in the South, a government which from the viewpoint of Italian anti-Fascists is neo-Fascist itself. We have not liquidated the Fascist regime but with the exception of top officials kept the structure intact. We are neither using the press which we control to form democratic opinion, nor permitting anti-Fascist groups to assemble and develop programs, nor recruiting an anti-Fascist volunteer army. Judging by the behavior of Anglo-American occupation forces, it is our intention to suppress an Italian showdown against Fascism.

The argument is that this must be postponed, until we occupy Rome. But why should a specific city, even the capital, be involved in a fundamental political policy? If Badoglio can govern without Rome why not another? Governments in exile with which we have been negotiating throughout the war do not have one inch of their own territory in their hands.

—ERROIS OF LAST WAR—

There is evidence that this turning over of political decisions to the military will have historical consequences. The same procedure had consequences after the first world war. In recent years the German republic has repeatedly been accused of not liquidating the ancient regime and leaving in courts, army, and civil bureaucracy the anti-democratic seeds which supported Hitler and precipitated the second world war. The accusation is not unfounded. But who was responsible for this survival?

I regret to say that the Allied military occupation authorities were involved in responsibility. When the Kaiser's regime collapsed the German nation was rising in full revolt. A central council of workers, soldiers, and peasants had been formed, and was taking over the administration, with a whole network of local councils assisting. The overwhelming majority were Social-Democratic and anti-Communist. The councils regarded themselves as temporary bodies for the construction of a new parliamentary system.

But when our occupying armies marched in, they refused cooperation with these opponents of the old regime and insisted that imperial officials be reinstated. The story is recorded by Colonel L. L. Hunt of the Third Army and American Forces of Occupation 1918-20, in his report as officer in charge of civil affairs. He said, "the political institutions with which the American army came into contact were . . . those of the old regime . . . It was fortunate . . . that the . . . counsel of moderation won the day, and most of the ex-imperial officers remained at their posts."

"It is self-evident that the autocratic nature (of the German civil service) peculiarly fits it to adapt itself to the wishes of an occupying force."

There you have in nut-shell the story now being repeated in Italy. Armies of occupation, if left politically to their own discretion, will inevitably ally themselves with the entrenched authorities, because, as Colonel Hunt further says, "trained and responsible officials can better carry out orders."

But revolutionary movements have their moments. Once passed they never recover, or move into another more violent stage. Without a political strategy to canalize and use the revolution forces, they will die, or pass completely out of our control.

tution may in the future be amended to permit county home rule, recalls a previous effort along this line. Prosecuting Attorney Torval E. Strom, with Chairman O. J. Thorsen and Sen. Joseph LaFramboise of Gladstone, drew the resolution at the request of the supervisors, promised "thorough study" of the matter.

Prosecutor Strom's s t u d y brought out that in November, 1926, a proposed amendment to the state constitution to permit county home rule was defeated by a vote of 730,000 against to 580,000 for. Four of the 83 counties of the state, Wayne, Macomb, Genesee and Oakland, gave the proposal a majority, 79 turned it down.

Included among the 79 was Delta, whose people cast 8,700 negative votes to 2,000 affirmative votes for the proposal to permit the people to adopt a simplified or "home rule" charter.

One factor stands out: The four counties favoring the 1926 proposal to amend the state constitution were all "metropolitan"—within their boundaries are included Michigan's largest cities. Now, however, we see the growing conviction among so-called "rural" counties that "home rule" is much to be desired. While this does not indicate that the majority of our people are dissatisfied with the present form of county government, it does indicate that our people—and our supervisors—are aware that if the people want a change they should be permitted to vote on the question.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. Robert S. Allen now on active service with the Army.)

Washington—A situation has existed inside the North American Aviation plant at Dallas, Texas, which has caused the Army to make a careful inspection. The North American company, in its anxiety to push out planes in a hurry, is reported to have relaxed its standards at the Dallas plant. As a result, there has been a battle between the company and plane inspectors, with the latter determined to keep defective planes from reaching the Army.

Pearson

So far, according to the Army investigators, no defective planes have reached the men flying at the front.

However, one chief inspector employed by the North American company resigned in disgust after registering vigorous protests.

The inspector is Varne T. Irons of Irving, Texas, who, after ten years' flying experience with TWA and the 4-engine pilot-training school at Albuquerque, joined the North American plant at Dallas in August, 1942. In December, 1942, he was given the title of superintendent of B flight tests and chief test pilot.

In the early part of 1943, the first B-24's produced at Dallas began to come off the assembly line. In a sworn affidavit, Irons has stated that the first plane was produced in fast time and efficiently. But, he continued, "the records will reveal it was several weeks before airplane No. 2 was completed for flight. Succeeding planes grew worse, due to poor workmanship, incompetent supervision and lack of inspection."

—WRONG RIVETS USED—

"On airplane No. 4," Irons stated, "several thousand rivets of the wrong type were used in the main center section of the airplane, through lack of competent inspection. This was not discovered until the center section was practically complete. These rivets were removed and replaced. In this operation, the center section was twisted several inches out of alignment. Every time this condition was mentioned to the top supervisory and management officials, they would immediately inform me to shut up and say nothing."

"In my position as chief test pilot, I was forced to fly this airplane against my better judgment. Immediately upon take-off, the airplane started a vicious roll, and only with the help of the co-pilot on the field, and I immediately contacted Mr. D. M. Sneton, general superintendent of the B plant. He said: 'Don't tell anybody about it. We'll see if we can't rig this condition out of the airplane.'"

"Whereupon the control surfaces of this airplane were rigged to make it fly straight and level. This condition caused severe strain and stresses on the control mechanism, which, in my opinion, was a serious flight hazard. I was instructed to sign it off as OK and to shut up about it."

"By the time airplane No. 20 came out of the factory, there were from four to seven hundred defects which required several thousand man hours to correct before the planes were airworthy. This condition has constantly grown worse until, on Jan. 1, 1944, there are dozens of airplanes standing on the west ramp, so badly mutilated that it will be many weeks before these planes can be repaired and delivered."

—"PUSH 'EM OUT REGARDLESS"—

"The company's policy, as fostered by the management, has been 'push them out of the door and deliver regardless of their condition.' For several weeks, I would return to the assembly line a list of the most common defects in an effort to correct this situation. The management always gave me the answer that they were building the planes and it was up to me to fly them."

"Not one single airplane has come from the final production line to the flight test department with a satisfactory landing gear. Upon the request of Mr. W. L. Landers, night general superintendent, that I loan him one of my key men to serve on final assembly in the landing-gear department as foreman to supervise the installation of landing gears, I assigned Mr. Tex Williams, a competent and experienced landing-gear man. Mr. Williams tried to correct the situation and was laughed at by the company's production and inspection department."

"On many occasions, I have loaned key men from my department to the final assembly line in an effort to correct discrepancies which were continually occurring, only to have them report back to me that they were accomplishing nothing, as they could secure no cooperation."

Irons stated that, finally, last December, he was called into a meeting of the factory management.

"At this meeting," he continued, "I was abruptly informed that I had failed miserably and that, effective the same date, my position was being filled by a far more capable man but, since I was one of the finest pilots in the country, they requested that I continue on with no cut in salary, which makes me the highest-paid pilot actively flying a B-24 in the Dallas division of North American Aviation."

However, Irons had to teach the man who succeeded him as chief test pilot how to fly a B-24. Subsequently, Irons transferred to another airplane manufacturing plant in California.

In some places March weather came in like a lion—and as far as we're concerned can take it on the lam.

Some substitutes may be as good as the original, but don't try to substitute money for happiness.

FAVORITE COLOR combination for spring, any year, is the navy blue wool knit cardigan suit (left) with sparkling white accessories of knitted ascot and bumper beret. The town and country cardigan suit at the right is made of a novelty jacquard check wool knitted fabric in bright shades of Mexican clay, time and sage. (NEA Photo.)

New York—Add the "oomph" appeal of spicier colors and saucier styles to the other claims of the woolknit outfit—it is sag and wrinkle-resistant and has a clean-cut chic—and you sum up its spring credentials.

All of these qualifications bring the woolknit a long way on its fashion career, which began a few years back when a sturdy little suit—like mostly for dodging the ironing board and for its reluctance to show soil—sneaked into the limelight because one designer had the courage to put a small white pique collar around its neck.

The woolknit's new color appeal includes Mexican clay, lime, green, violet, cinnamon—stick, and a soft-blue, borrowed from the palette of the miniature painter. These colors you can take either mixed or straight. Mixed in peppery colors. Straight in soft pastel shades.

Stepped-up feminine appeal pops up in all kinds of clothes. There are after-dark woolknit dresses with ribbed necklines lowered all the way down to here and waistbands that are ribbed to make a girl look more close-hauled. Givng woolknits more "oomph," there is an abundance of softer tailoring—pleats, sunburst tucks, draping, bows, strategic darts, and flower-like plastic buttons. There's more style, too, achieved by embellishing tricks of giving a one or two-piece dress a matching jacket, a sweater and a skirt team a polo shirt or basque-striped pull-on, a suit its two-is-company companion top.

Woolknits have other attributes, too. They're good impersonators of woven fabrics and of fabulous hand-knits. One woolknit suit, for instance, looks as much like a handsome tweed suit as Tweedledee does like Tweedledum, with its novelty jacquard check pattern, which combines three tweed-like colors—clay, lime and green. Clay color binds the woolknit jacket, just as the dominant tone of a tweed pattern would be repeated in trimming for a tweed suit. Another woolknit suit is a dead ringer of men's wear flannel suit—this time a chalk stripe pattern on a navy background. The styling of this suit—a trim collarless outfit with a matching finger-tip coat—climaxes the resemblance.

Mixed Program Is Enjoyed Thursday At Westside PTA

The Lincoln-Riverside P. T. A. met Thursday evening at the Lincoln school.

Opening the program, Norman Martin and Carl Olson, accompanied by Mrs. James Fyrie, played two violin duets, entitled "Little Symphony" and "A Spring Morning."

Miss Dora Cunningham, U. P. executive of the Girl Scouts, spoke to the P. T. A. members and friends assembled using as her subject, "Children, Scouting, and the War."

She aptly showed the part the home, school and play activities take in teaching our children to be democratic leaders of the future. Scouting being included in the play activities. Also, Miss Cunningham told of the three phases where the Scouts help in the war effort. They are: boosting public morale through parades; the voluntary buying and selling of war bonds and stamps and contributions to the Juliette Lowe Memorial fund which in turn is used in helping children in foreign countries; and supervised part time work on farms. In closing Miss Cunningham showed the many ways Scouts and the P. T. A. organizations are working together.

Despite the fact that winter is still very much in existence a large number of local residents are today planning their spring garden activities after listening to the interesting talk by Joseph Heirman, county agricultural agent. Mr. Heirman, explaining the fact that an average family of five consumes 5 1/2 tons of food during the year, pointed out the need of home gardens where conditions for them are favorable. He also stated that the Upper Peninsula is capable of growing the highest quality of vegetables in the entire United States. And not only are these vegetables being grown but seed is also being produced to relieve the existing shortage. Bulletins and folders are available at the agent's office in the post office building and anyone may have them for the asking. In concluding his talk, Mr. Heirman illustrated the points he had discussed with colored slides. These slides included local scenery as well as the work at the Experimental Station at Chatham. Several shots of the local high school band, taken at the 4-H club meeting here, were shown for the first time.

Marjorie Hough and Beatrice Olson of the Junior class at the high school were in attendance at the meeting. Miss Hough spoke of the need for funds to assist the Red Cross which in turn is assisting our boys in the service and urged everyone to attend the dance on March 17 in the old gymnasium.

Mrs. Kieth Bundy, Mrs. A. Curran, Mrs. E. Reichhoff, Mrs. F. Rydquist and Mrs. Leo Gardner were appointed to the hostess committee to work with a committee of the Central-Lakeside P. T. A. at a joint meeting in the near future. Mrs. Hebbard, Mrs. Max Osterhout and Mrs. C. E. Moore, the nominating committee. The organization also decided to contribute to the Red Cross drive. Announcement was also made that the First Aid class will start approximately April 20 and anyone wishing to join may still do so by calling Mrs. M. Kotick.

Hostesses for this meeting were the mothers of the third grade room with Mrs. C. E. Moore, Mrs. Albert Fieberitz, Mrs. Ed Harrington and Mrs. Robert Marks in charge of arrangements. The spring motif was followed in the table appointments which were cleverly prepared by the Brownie Troops of the third and fourth grades.

FSA Committee Says Loan Funds Are Limited Now

In stretching limited Farm Security Administration funds to meet the needs of all Schoolcraft county farmers unable to finance 1944 farming operations, two important steps are being taken by the County FSA Committee, according to Clayton D. Reid, County FSA supervisor, Manistique.

"All new applications are carefully reviewed by the county committee to determine if all possibilities of adequate financing through local banks or other credit agencies have been exhausted," said Reid. "If the application is approved, the smallest loan consistent with maximum war food production is recommended to conserve remaining funds."

As a second step in placing FSA funds where most needed, the financial status and progress of all borrowers in the program three years or more are being reviewed to determine if they have become eligible for bank credit, it was explained. A borrower who has progressed to the "Commercial credit" stage will be referred to local financing agencies if supplemental credit is required.

"FSA loan funds for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1944 will be exhausted in Schoolcraft county within a month or two by present demands unless more applicants can be financed through other local credit agencies," Reid said. "We hope in this way to take care of every family-type farmer who cannot qualify for regular credit and would be prevented from making full use of his experience, labor and production resources."

Rare Book "All About Coffee" Now At School Library

The Manistique library recently received an interesting gift from the National Coffee Department of Brazil in the shape of a book entitled "All About Coffee" by William H. Ukers. It is a monumental work which would retail at $15.00 and which deals with all phases of the growth, preparation and use of coffee.

After a brief history of its propagation, it gives fascinating legends of its early discovery over a thousand years ago and shows the development of the use of coffee in various countries even describing the sumptuous coffee houses which in many cities became so famous.

The botany, chemistry and factory preparation of coffee, its merchandising, advertising and consumption are all gone into extensively and the book ends with sections on coffee in literature and coffee in the arts. There is even a translation of a lengthy poem which was originally written in Latin and which is now preserved in the British Museum. The volume is a store of varied and interesting information, written in an unusually readable fashion for any to whom the subject appeals.

Price Ceiling Drive Next Week Is Explained

In connection with the county-wide survey on the part of the War Price and Rationing office next week to check compliance of food dealers with OPA ceiling prices, Lawrence L. Farrell, district director of OPA issued this statement this week:

"Maintaining price control and observing ceiling prices on food are very important if we are going to prevent disastrous inflation," Farrell said. "One of the ways to do it is to get solidly behind these ceiling prices and see that every body sticks to them. Price controls on all food were put into operation so that the wife and child of a soldier could get along a little better on a monthly allotment of $80. So that families whose salaries have not been raised or people living on pensions or annuities could find things in the store that weren't priced way beyond all reason. Everyone knows that these war-time measures are absolutely vital if we are going to protect ourselves and insure an ordinary stable community to which our fighting men can return. They are calling on us to do that job and we don't want to fail them."

"This price survey is in no sense a 'get tough program.' But to hold the price line is a 'must' not because OPA wants it done but because thinking people believe in price control and know the disastrous results of inflation. I am certain that merchants, throughout the Upper Peninsula, will be eager to cooperate in this price survey because ceiling prices protect the honest merchant from chiselers and black marketers."

"I am hopeful that responsible citizens of each community will volunteer their services when they realize the cooperative manner in which this job is to be done. We are making this price survey because we want to show that the people here in Upper Michigan understand the importance of rigid price controls. We are doing it through our local boards in a friendly, neighborly spirit."

Seniors Urged To Try Army-Navy College Tests

Principal of High Schools Carl Olson today recommended the Army-Navy College Qualifying test on March 15 to young men eligible for the test.

The Army-Navy College Qualifying test, described in the leaflet by that name available through high school principals and containing an application blank for the test, provides a basis for the selection of young men for the Army Specialized Training Program and the Navy College Program. Created as a result of a joint effort of the War and Navy departments and the U. S. Office of Education, it will be administered locally in high schools, preparatory schools and colleges throughout the nation at 9 o'clock, Wednesday morning, March 15.

The test is open to young men who will reach their 17th birthday by July 1, 1944 and who are in the final term of their senior year of high school, recent high school or prep school graduates, or college students without certificates of graduation from high school and not now enrolled in any service program. Those who failed to qualify on previous Army-Navy College qualifying tests are also eligible provided they are not in the armed forces.

Candidates are required to designate a choice of service when they take the test. Men who designate a preference for the Navy which includes Marine Corps and Coast Guard, must be between 17 and 19 years inclusive by July 1, 1944.

Women's Club Menu Contest Underway

The Woman's Club Nutrition committee is sponsoring a "Food Fights for Freedom" menu contest during this month.

The housewife, during these emergency days of point rationing, hard to get foods, and increased living costs, combined with the strain of busy war demands, is finding it more difficult to meet the food needs of her family adequately. Everyone is becoming increasingly conscious of the vital part that food plays in keeping us buoyantly healthy.

As an aid in helping each Manistique mother to plan varying, appetizing, nutritious meals for her family, the Nutrition committee of the Woman's club is asking each club member to submit the menu of one day's meals which she has found to be favorites in her family, and which have helped her to meet rationing, nutritional and family budget requirements.

These menus, with the recipes of the important dishes, are to be brought to the March 21 meeting of the Woman's club or handed to any member of the Nutrition committee. A prize will be awarded the menu which the judges select as best fulfilling the qualifications of rationing, nutritional, appetizing, cost and time considerations. The committee will compile the submitted menus into mimeographed form which will be made available through the Woman's club and the Health Unit.

Officers Play Good Samaritans To Deer Again

Conservation officers continued in their role of the "good Samaritan" for troubled deer here Tuesday evening. It was the fourth time this winter.

A yearling buck deer, apparently chased by dogs, was seen coming into the city about 6 p. m. Tuesday near the city shops. It ran out into the river and became "bogged down" in the ice and water.

Conservation officers were called to the scene and attempted to rescue the animal by lassoo, an art at which they have become fairly adept this winter. This failed. Finally at about 7:15 p. m. Bruce Vertz decided to get it over with. He waded waist deep into the animal, placed it on his shoulders and carried it to shore. Exposure had weakened the small deer considerably. He was taken to conservation headquarters here for the night, and evidently in good condition was released by the officers Wednesday.

Pastor Steen Wins Converts by Skiing, Story in Magazine

Give the Rev. Otto Steen, Iron Mountain Methodist minister, one good, heavy fall of snow and he will show this ski - minded city some fancy stunts he learned as a boy in Norway. The Rev. Mr. Steen, who came to Iron Mountain last spring to take charge of the First and Wesley Methodist churches, made a name for himself while serving in Manistique, before coming to Iron Mountain. Chaplain Dan B. Jorgensen, telling the story in "The Christian Advocate," said "On his skis he won converts."

Here is the chaplain's story of the ski-loving minister, who likes the open winter which Iron Mountain has thus far enjoyed, but misses the feel of his skis:

Did Something About It
"The Rev. Otto Steen, of Manistique, is one preacher who believes enough in his preaching to do something about his own sermons. To divert the young people of his church from taverns and pool-halls, this minister conceived the idea of a ski-jump. As a boy, in Norway, he participated in such sports as skiing, skating and sledding. Having carefully worked out a plan, he saw that something was done about it."

"Interest in winter sports soared among young people and old when the facilities were provided. One ski-jumping contest alone had participants from Munising, Gladstone, and other cities."

"On a single afternoon as many as 400 people have enjoyed the ski-slide. 'When 400 people of a city that has a population of 5,000 spend the afternoon in God's beautiful outdoors, the taverns are bound to do less business,' says Pastor Steen knowingly."

Value Of Clean Sport
"As I looked down the 150-foot slope of the hill over the woodland to Manistique River at its junction, and thought of what this one project had meant to the young people of Manistique, I asked: 'Why did you do it? Isn't it a bit out of your line as a minister?'"

"The Norway-born, winter-loving minister was silent for a moment and the answer: 'My theory is that clean winter sport and fresh air are better than the taverns and pool halls where many people would go otherwise. I've found that it isn't enough to tell our people to stay away from questionable places in the community. We must offer them something better.'"

It Worked
"On his skis this pastor, now serving at Iron Mountain, Mich., won a large number of both young and old to the church. It may well be that it takes a hard-and-fast project such as his to teach the people the rich, positive substance of religion. Having found that it wasn't enough to tell the young people of the community to stay away from questionable places unless there was something better to offer them," Pastor Steen better find something better. And it worked."

First Inductee School
Held At Court House
Thursday Night

A school for expectant inductees and their wives, the first of its kind in Schoolcraft county, took place Thursday evening in the court house.

On hand to answer questions and describe life in the service were Major Samuel E. Oakey, inf. area commander, Marquette, and P. O. Roy Anderson, formerly of Manistique, and now with the Navy recruiting station at Escanaba. In addition, the local informational panel, organized here by the Civilian Defense Council, was present to give information. They included Mrs. Lottie Weber, Red Cross and social aid; W. J. Sheahan, legal; Keith Bundy, insurance; W. G. Stephens, general chairman.

Major Oakey traced the routine Army life through the reception center and basic training, giving the men useful hints. He stressed the fact that married men should secure certified copies of their marriage license and their children's birth certificates to facilitate making allotments to dependents at the reception center. Before leaving for service a man should take care of all his business such as giving power of attorney to his wife or close friend, have property deeds made out jointly with his wife, arrange for freewill or regular payments on obligations such as insurance premiums and mortgages, transfer car title to his wife's name etc.

Life in the Navy was described by P. O. Anderson. He suggested that men travel light when they leave for service. Don't take any jewelry or valuables along, as men are not issued lockers until they leave boot camp, he said. He suggested that Navy men give serious thought to enrolling in one of the 49 schools after they complete boot training.

Mrs. Weber, a Red Cross worker for 23 years, told the men that sooner or later they could expect the services of the Red Cross while in service. She said she has already been in contact with some 700 men from Schoolcraft county now in service. Red Cross Home Service is available in every camp, she said, whereby servicemen can secure emergency aid. To the wives present at the meeting, Mrs. Weber stated that in reality they were giving their husbands to the service and they had no claim on them until after the war. You must expect to sacrifice and do many of the things your husband has taken care of in the past, she said. Don't tell all your minor troubles in your letters to your husbands, she urged, as your husband will be worried enough as it is. If an emergency comes up, or you need medical or financial assistance, the Red Cross home service is ready to help, she told them.

Movies showing inductees at the reception center were shown, after which the inductees were free to ask questions of any of the panel members present.

Eskymos Meet Iron Mountain For Class B Title Tonight

Iron Mountain, March 10.—(Special)—Escanaba and Iron Mountain in Class B and Hermansville and Channing in Class D fought their way to the finals in the district basketball tournament here tonight and will battle for the district championships Saturday night.

The Eskymos romped over Manistique, 39 to 21, after a bad first half and Iron Mountain eliminated Kingsford, 29 to 24, leading all of the way.

In Class D, Hermansville smothered Felch, 48 to 29, and Channing erased Vulcan in a hard fought battle, 40 to 38. Upon the basis of today's performances, Iron Mountain and Hermansville, both top seeded in their own divisions, are favored to come through tomorrow night for the district titles but they will find the route no easy one.

Escanaba was slow getting up a head of steam against the Emeralds and at half time the score was tied, 12-12. Ranguette, the Escanaba pivot star, got the range in the third quarter, however, and the Eskymos got the game on ice in that period, taking a 25-14 lead. They extended their advantage in the final period. Ranguette scored 23 points.

Kingsford, the Class B dark horse, kept in the running all of the way in its game with Iron Mountain but the Mountaineers set the pace. Constantini scored 15 points for Iron Mountain.

Hermansville won its victory over Felch in the first quarter, scoring 22 points to nine. Felch battled gamely after that but the cause was already lost.

Channing, however, found Vulcan plenty tough and the issue was in doubt until the final run although Channing set the pace and led through most of the game.

RING SITUATION IN NEW TANGLE

Montgomery Declares He's Too Tired To Defend Crown

BY FRITZ HOWELL

New York, March 10 (AP)—Promotor Mike Jacobs added another twist to the already snarled lightweight title mess tonight when he signed Juan Zurita, the newly-crowned N.B.A. champion, with Beau Jack, who lost the N. Y.-N. J. Pa. version to Bob Montgomery a week ago. The 160-pound-over-the-weight battle will be held in Madison Square Garden March 21.

Original plans had called for Montgomery to clash with Sammy Angott on that date in a battle that would clear up the clouded 135-pound situation but Sammy spoiled that by losing his crown to Zurita Wednesday night in Hollywood.

When Angott insisted on going through with the bout, Montgomery reported that he was "too tired" to defend his laurels for a while.

Frankie Thomas, handling Montgomery's affairs, said his boy wasn't feeling well and was tired from training and making weight for recent scraps with Ike Williams, Al Davis and Jack.

The New York State Boxing Commission which had engineered the Angott-Montgomery go to remove any doubts about either's claim to the title, insisted that the bout should go on as scheduled and even summoned Montgomery to appear for a physical checkup.

Jacobs, despairing of getting the two boys together, dubbed the Jack-Zurita affair and finds himself with two or three bouts instead of one as it is possible that the winner of this one will get a later outdoor match with Montgomery with Angott figuring as another contestant.

Paul (Dizzy) Trout Rejected By Army

Detroit, March 10 (AP)—Pitcher Paul (Dizzy) Trout, 20-game winner for the Detroit Tigers last season, was rejected for Army service today and placed in 4-P by his selective service board here.

Trout said he first was accepted for limited service but later was rejected because his ears and eyes were below Army standards. He is 25 years old, married and the father of two children.

Trout said he would return at once to Detroit's spring camp at Evansville, Ind., where earlier this week he received notice to report for a pre-induction examination.

Enough lumber is used in crating a bomber to build a five-room house.

Both of the top seeded teams and defending champions in the Class C-E district tournament were eliminated at the Bonifas gymnasium last night, Stephenson upsetting Norway, 27-23, and Trenary dethroning Quinnesec, 44 to 43, in a thrilling finish. In other semi-final games, Nahma defeated Cooks, 38 to 34, and Gladstone trimmed Baraga Parochial of Marquette, 36 to 29.

Tonight at 7:30 Nahma and Trenary will meet in the Class E finals and Stephenson and Gladstone will meet for the Class C championship at 8:45.

The Trenary-Quinnesec game was a fiction writer's dream. Trenary led in the opening quarter, 11 to 10, but Quinnesec took a 26-17 stranglehold at half time.

Trenary rallied brilliantly in the third quarter to overcome the gap and moved into the lead but Quinnesec went out in front just before the quarter ended, 35-33.

The teams were tied four times in the last quarter and then Quinnesec went out in front, 41-40, on D. Larsen's free throw.

Seppanen dropped in a field goal for Trenary to make the score 42-41 with only a half minute left to play. H. Larsen drilled home a long goal for Quinnesec and it looked like curtains for Trenary until V. Trotter pulled a Meriwell finish in the closing seconds of play with a long bucket for the decision.

Gladstone sewed up its game with Baraga late in the third quarter. With the score tied 20-all half way through the third period, the Braves opened an offensive that pulled them out in front, 28-21. The Baragans rallied at the start of the final period but Gladstone came back with another scoring burst and then coasted to victory.

Nahma found Cooks plenty tough and for a brief period in the fourth period the Schoolcrafters appeared to be in the driver's seat. Nahma had a 28-18 lead at one stage of the game, but Cooks bit off point by point until the score was 32-31. Nahma put on the clincher, however, at this point with Mercer sinking two goals and Camps one.

The Stephenson-Norway game was a battle of stout zone defenses. Neither team broke through for many under the basket shots but Stephenson was more consistent in shots from beyond the range of the zone defense. The close guarding cost Coach Brunelle's team three men on fouls, but the substitutes came through fine when the chips were down.

Temperature Near Freezing As Early Tigers Work Out

Evansville, Ind., March 9 (AP)—Pitchers Harold Newhouse and Zeb Eaton, who weren't due to report until next week, participated today in a Detroit Tiger workout intended primarily for a squad of 20 players who are exempt from military service.

The temperature was near the freezing mark for the workout. Newhouse, twice rejected by selective service medical examiners, said he was a few pounds underweight but expected to be ready early for regular mound duty. Eaton, a Detroit farmhand, recently received an army medical discharge.

Manager Steve O'Neill devoted much attention today to six-foot, 11-inch Ralph Siewert of Mt. Clemens who aspires to be a pitcher. The big boy was a first baseman in sandlot competition, but Tiger officials said they hoped to make use of his strong arm.

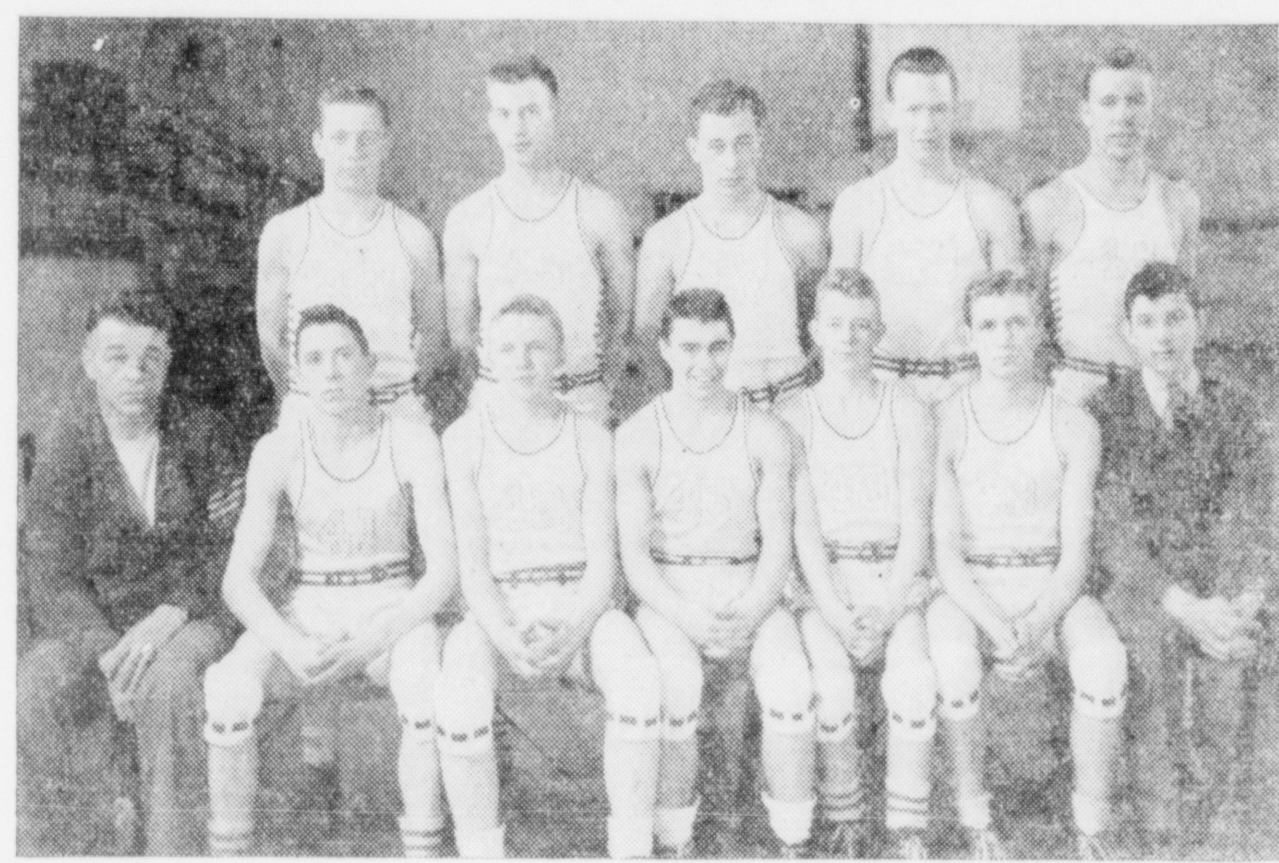

SIGNS WITH PIRATES
Pittsburgh, March 10 (AP)—Johnny (Long John) Gee, former University of Michigan pitcher, has signed his 1944 contract with the Pittsburgh Pirates, President William E. Benswanger announced today. The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

After 15 to 20 weeks of basketball practice, it would seem that basketball players would develop a high degree of skill in flipping free throws and yet in the tournament games here Thursday, opening day of the local district meet, the four competing teams scored less than 27 per cent of their charity shots. Trenary made the best showing in this department, 8 out of 18 for roughly 44 per cent. Perkins had the poorest average, scoring only four out of 24 for 17 per cent. St. Joseph netted five out of 23 for 22 per cent and Stephenson scored five out of 17 for about 30 per cent. All told, the four teams dropped in 22 free throws in 82 attempts. Par for the course should be about 50 per cent and anything over that is so much velvet. Anything less is poor shooting, particularly at this stage of the season.

A letter arrived yesterday from Lt. Col. John W. Kelly, former upper peninsula sports official now in England, alleviating my suspicions that Col. Kelly was working on detail so shrouded in military secrecy that he was held incommunicado or something. It turned out, however, that the usual flow of mail from Kelly was temporarily stopped only because he was injured recently. Alas, he'll get no purple heart medal. He cracked up his knee while playing defensive fullback in a football game. Those guys will never realize they're getting old and even a couple weeks in a hospital "somewhere in England" has failed to convince him that football is for the younger guys full of pep and vigor.

Jimmy Conzelmann, former Chicago Cardinal coach, who is one of sportdom's ace philosophers, doubts that the removal of athletic heroes from the sports scene to military camps will soften the enthusiasm among the youngsters for athletics. In fact, Conzelmann has a "reverse English" theory on this matter. He contends that the youngsters worship the big names from a distance but the guys they really imitate are the neighborhood heroes. All in all, Conzelmann thinks that athletic enthusiasm is increasing among the youngsters because of expanded opportunities.

Due to lack of snow, floodlights have not been installed for the bowl and therefore no supervisor is being provided at night. Parties are scheduled at the lodge, however, for both nights.

'HOWLING DAN' HOWLEY DEAD

Major League Baseball Veteran Has Fatal Heart Attack

Weymouth, Mass., March 10, (AP)—One week before he was to open his 38th year in organized baseball, Daniel P. Howley, 58, former major league baseball manager and recently Boston Red Sox scout, died today of a heart attack at his home.

Known as "Howling Dan" because of his vocal vigor on the diamond, Howley broke into organized ball as a catcher with Indianapolis in 1906.

After service with several minor league clubs, he played for the Philadelphia Nationals and the Cleveland Indians in the majors.

At the close of his major league playing career, he was signed as playing-manager of the Montreal International league team. He coached the Boston Red Sox in 1918 and from there went to the Detroit Tigers in the same capacity.

In 1927 he succeeded George Sisler as manager of the St. Louis Browns and under his regime the Browns finished seventh, third and fourth. He then took over the managerial reins of the Cincinnati Reds, succeeding Jack Hendricks.

After three years with the Reds, Howley became manager and owner of the Toronto International league club in 1932, and established residence in Canada. He sold his holdings a few years later and returned to his home here.

Last summer he was signed by the Red Sox to conduct a series of baseball schools throughout the east. Dan liked the work and signed many boys whom he thought would make the grade as major leaguers.

"Howling Dan" apparently had been in excellent health as late as yesterday, when he paid a visit to the Red Sox office to confer with General Manager Eddie Collins.

His widow and two sisters, all of Weymouth, survive him.

MICHIGAN TOPS TRACK ENTRIES

Chicago, March 10 (AP)—Michigan's squad of 22 men tonight topped a list of 179 candidates entered for tomorrow's annual Big Ten indoor track championships.

Qualifying preliminaries in the 440, 880, the 60-yard dash and the low and high hurdles will be held tomorrow afternoon in the University of Chicago Fieldhouse. The championship program is scheduled to start at 8 p. m. (CWT).

Only three defending champions are back—two from Michigan's Wolverines—who are an overwhelming choice to beat out Illinois for the team title. Defending their crowns will be Bob Ufer, the 440-yard Big Ten and American record-holder, and a Miller Ross Hume. The other defending titlist is Pole Vaulter Johnny Schmidt of Ohio State.

Ufer and Schmidt are favored to retain their championships, but Ross Hume will draw strong competition from his twin brother, Er. Bob, who has turned in the best mile time of the season.

Illinois' sensational freshman Buddy Young, is expected to win the 60-yard dash, the 70-yard low hurdles and the broad jump, and possibly may be the only record-breaker of the meet with a new mark in the broad jump. He also may equal Jesse Owen's 6000 time in the dash, the Big Ten as well as the world's record.

Other outstanding entries are Elmer Swanson, Michigan, high hurdler; Armin Baumann of Minnesota, who has hipped jumped 6 feet 2 inches; Knight Webster of Wisconsin, whose 9:59.9 two-mile is the Big Ten best for the season; Bill Haynes of Purdue with a 1:58.8 in the half mile; and Shot-Putter Nelson Klaus, also of Purdue, with a toss of 47 feet 6¼ inches.

A tire on a wheel which is only one-half inch out of alignment is dragged sideways 87 feet every mile the car travels.

Jimmy Conzelmann, former Chicago Cardinal coach, who is one of sportdom's ace philosophers, doubts that the removal of athletic heroes from the sports scene to military camps will soften the enthusiasm among the youngsters for athletics. In fact, Conzelmann has a "reverse English" theory on this matter. He contends that the youngsters worship the big names from a distance but the guys they really imitate are the neighborhood heroes. Wise Pennies Invested In The Want Ad Opportunities Soon Grow Up To Be Dollars

The Roving Reporter

By ERNIE PYLE

In Italy, (by wireless)—Gunnor, Sgt. Alban Petchal, who comes from Steubenville, O., said that if I would come over to their tent after supper they'd see if they couldn't drum up a snack before bedtime. He said they often cooked just to pass the time.

So I went over about 8 o'clock and Sgt. Petchal said, "I didn't put the potatoes on yet. We were afraid you weren't coming."

The potatoes were already cooked. Petchal sliced some thin and dropped them into a skillet on top of the fiery gasoline stove. When he got them a crispy brown he said, "Have you ever eaten eggs scrambled right in with potatoes?"

Sergeant Petchal said that's the way his mother always fixed them, so he broke up a few eggs and scrambled them with the potatoes, and served them in the mess kits. They were wonderful.

The eggs cost 20 cents apiece.

There were seven boys in the tent, all aerial gunners. We sat and talked for a long time about things in general. Finally I started to put down their names, and by one I discovered that every boy in that tent with one exception had been through at least one violent experience.

Sgt. Robert Swigert is from Williamsport, Pa. The others would-naturedly call him "Paddy" because he is sort of suave looking. He had on nothing but shorts, and while I was there he shaved and then took a sponge bath out of a washbasin.

Sergeant Swigert was wounded once by flak and spent two months in a hospital. Another time his plane made a crash landing after being badly shot up, and it broke in two and caught fire when it hit. Yet the crew escaped. The boys showed me the snapshots of the demolished plane.

Then we turned to Sergeant Guadalupe Tangama, of San Antonio, Tex. He had just got his orders home, and may be in America by the time this gets into print. He was feeling wonderful about it.

Sergeant Tangama is of Spanish blood, speaks fluent Spanish, and therefore gets along fairly well in Italian. His experience as a grusome one, although it ended on a fine, his plane went to a dive and he couldn't get out of the pilot's compartment, so all Tangama and the other gunner could do was try to get out. They finally made it.

Tangama landed upside down in a tree. Italians came running and got him down. He gave the parachute to the crowd. Forty-five minutes after his jump he was in a farmhouse eating fried eggs.

An Italian volunteered as guide and started walking with him. The Italians wouldn't take money for their help. The other gunner got back alone.

Next I put down Sergeant Charles Ramseur, of Gold Hill, N. C. Sergeant Ramseur used to fly with my dive-bombing friend Maj. Ed Bland, and Major Bland says he's tops.

Ramseur was about to shave off a half-inch growth of whiskers. He was feeling a little abashed because the first sergeant had spoken sharply about it that afternoon. When he did shave, he left a mustache and a straggly little goatee.

Ramseur is the quiet, courteous, unschooled but natively refined type you find so often in the hill country in the south. He hopes to be going home soon, although his orders haven't been put through yet.

Ramseur has taught himself engraving since being in the army. At least it's a form of engraving. He picks out designs on all his medals with a pen-knife. His canteen top is covered with names and flight insignia. He has a photo album with aluminum covers made from a German plane, and all over it are engraved names and places. Sergeant Ramseur hopes maybe this talent might lead to an engraver's job after the war.

On the finer lining of his steel helmet he has chronicled his missions, with a small bomb representing each one. They cover the entire front of the helmet, and he looks at them with relief.

News From Boys In The Service

Participation in the smashing attack on Emwotok atoll is described by Cpl. Edward F. Gleich of the United States Marine Corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gleich, in the following letter, the first received by members of his family in several weeks:

"Dearest Mother, Sis and All,
"Yep, 'tis finally me again, giving out with a little of this and that. Naturally you were wondering why I didn't write. By now you've read Edward Gleich about the smashing attack on Emwotok atoll — well, that was us—and believe me, I'm thanking God I'm safe, sound and healthy and able to be writing this missive now. I can readily say it was plenty rugged.

"Boy, we first landed on Engeble Island and after a little trouble we went ahead and made out O. K. They (the Nips) play a game of hide and seek and, boy, you've got to go after them, they won't come out. There is many an incident I could tell you but it is hard to find words to express them.

"To make this trip complete, all they'd have to say is, 'Well, Gleich, you can go back to the U. S. A.' What a happy man I'd be!

"Two days later we made the landing on Parry Island and once again after overcoming opposition of different kinds we again claimed another. The nights by far are the most difficult. A fellow lives a hundred years in a night. Boy, they are long. That's when the Nips are the trickiest. Thanks to God it is over with for the time being.

"Well, guess I'll sign off for now. God's blessings always."

Cpl. Gleich enclosed in his letter souvenirs in the form of Nip paper money.

OFFER PLAN TO SUPPLY BULLS

Meetings Scheduled Here To Explain Program To Farmers

A series of meetings are scheduled in Delta county next week at which dairy farmers will be advised of a plan by which better bulls may be obtained at lower cost, so they may obtain better milk production from their herds. E. A. Wenner, county agricultural agent, announced yesterday.

"There are entirely too many poor production bulls being used in Delta county," Wenner said. "If we are ever going to get top milk production from our herds, we have to start with a good bull."

George McIntyre, extension dairyman, will explain the plan whereby dairy farmers can obtain bulls from herds with milk production records. He will also show the value of owning a good bull.

While the plan itself is entirely new, it is believed that it will take much of the work away from the farmer in procuring a better bull and will in this way encourage him to participate in the program.

Briefly the plan is to obtain baby bulls from herds of high production in Lower Michigan. Orders will be taken from Upper Peninsula farmers—the program is to include all 15 U. P. counties.

For the baby bulls and when enough orders have been received to make one shipment, the bulls will be delivered. In this way the cost will be lower than if there was a separate shipment on each bull.

At the time of ordering the farmer will be required to deposit $10, and the remainder can be paid later. Under this tentative plan a 300-pound bull from a good herd would cost about $60.

"We must have better bulls, and we believe this plan will work because of the cooperation of the other counties," Wenner said.

The four meetings are scheduled as follows in Delta county: Monday, March 13 — 2 p. m. Rapid River high school; 8 p. m., Flat Rock town hall.

Tuesday, March 14 — 2 p. m. Rock high school; 8 p. m. Bark River community hall.

Cupples Will Head Easter Seal Sales

C. C. Cupples, Newberry, has accepted the Luce county chairmanship of the annual Easter seal sale to finance the program of the Michigan Society for Crippled Children for the coming year, Judge John Quinlan, director, announced yesterday. Opening on March 8 and continuing until Easter, the seal sale is sponsored nationally by the National Society for Crippled Children, with which forty state-wide societies for the crippled and disabled are affiliated.

In accepting the chairmanship Mr. Cupples stressed the importance of intensification of voluntary organizations in the fields of social welfare in order to keep the home front intact in the present emergency.

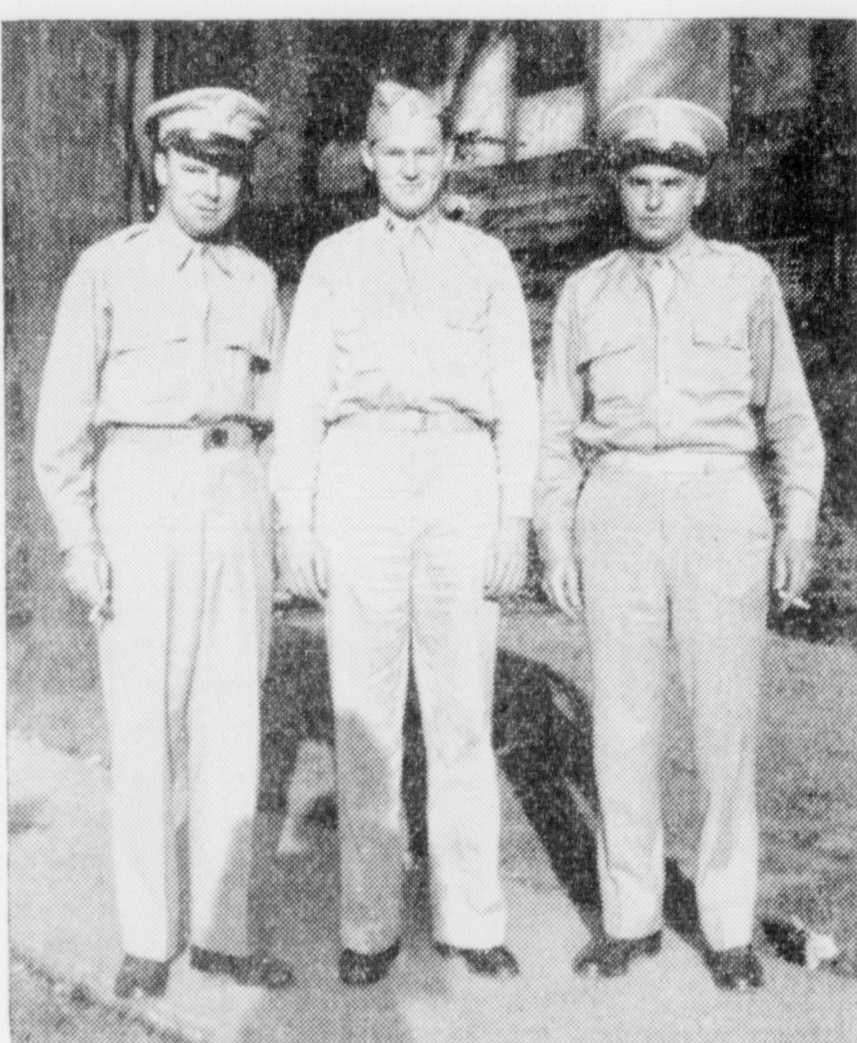

"In these days when our country needs every available ounce of manpower, any activity that keeps human beings off the scrap pile is worth our interest and support," Mr. Cupples said.

"Because crippled children grow up and because they want to become contributing members of society, the program of correcting physical defects through medical care and surgery assumes unusual significance this year. Symbolizing the program is the Easter seal which appears every year during the Easter season. We can all do our part to support this splendid movement in buying Easter seals and using them on our stationery," he said.

Communication

Captain Eddie Rickenbacker

Recently Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, speaking in New York city called upon business executives to get out of their bomb-proof private offices and fight for America first, "in order that America may last."

Rickenbacker's speech should be read by every American citizen, and should be made available to the youth who are in school. It has in it the spirit of Patrick Henry, George Washington and other Revolutionary heroes, who were willing to make any sacrifice to retain their freedom. Rickenbacker knows, as did Washington, Patrick Henry and Abraham Lincoln, that a nation of regimented people, is a nation wherein the dignity of the individual man is lost.

"American leaders," Rickenbacker said, "must learn to show their colors and courage. Failure, thru fear of being criticized, smeared, or a loss of temporary special privilege is nothing but cowardice and un-American." For nearly twelve long years Americans have been as clay in the hands of a group whose goal seems to be the de-Americanization of America. Millions of American citizens have been misled by flowery promises of a social order in which the common man was to come into his own. Today the fruit of twelve years of unremitting work, along the lines staked out by the leaders, is nothing but regimentation, rationing, regulations until the common man begins to wonder where is this glorious freedom for which American boys are spilling their life blood on a dozen battle fields thru-out the world. Our Allies are also supposed to be in the war. But Canada can lift the order rationing meat. Australians can buy alarm clocks, made in America, but Americans can't buy a clock. In England some of our men have bought bicycles on which they tour the country-side, but in the U. S. bicycles are rationed and can be bought only by a favored few. We rejoice at the good fortune of our neighbors, but wonder why the largesse of America shall be poured out at the expense of our own people's comfort and needs.

When a nation is at war its people must expect to make sacrifices. But when a nation is at war to confirm "four freedoms," one also must expect that those freedoms shall be given full exercise among the people. Instead we are being herded about like so many sheep by a horde of officials, who should be as armed forces, whose chief aim seems to be to so harass the people that they in disgust will overthrow the present system and go entirely over to the foreign isms, which are preached so loudly by the adherents and leaders of the party in power. It is high time that America wakes up and that the people begin to demand a return to the principles of Patrick Henry, George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. To do less is to be untrue to the thousands of our men who have given their lives in the present war, and to the many thousands of others who will give their lives before the firing ceases.
